

Employment Ontario Bulletin

October 12, 2017

The Deputy Minister of the Advanced Education and Skills Development (MAESD) recently announced that David Carter-Whitney will become the new Assistant Deputy Minister (ADM) of the Employment and Training Division (ETD), effective October 16, 2017. This appointment is part of a larger ministry realignment aimed at enhancing our ability to deliver on ministry and government priorities. A memo from the Deputy Minister about the realignment has been posted to the Employment Ontario Partners' Gateway.

David Carter-Whitney is currently the ADM of the Postsecondary Education Division (PSED) in MAESD where he has been responsible for Ontario's funding and accountability framework with universities and colleges, the Ontario Student Assistance Program, and Private Career Colleges.

David began his career in the Ontario Public Service (OPS) in 2006, helping to lead the implementation of Canada-Ontario Labour Market Development Agreement, and the creation of Employment Ontario. Prior to working in the OPS, David worked for the Federal Government. During his 16 year federal career, David held positions with what is now called Indigenous and Northern Affairs Canada, Western Economic Diversification, and Employment and Social Development Canada/Service Canada.

ETD welcomes David Carter-Whitney into his new role and is looking forward to working with him, in partnership with the Employment Ontario network, to help Ontarians improve their skills and find jobs.
